

WHO WE ARE

Digital Vibes was born out of our passion for change. There were too many good stories to tell and we felt it wasn't being told adequately. We began to work with government departments to tell their good stories and that was just the beginning. We have been telling good stories with the help of a strong team who are all passionate and qualified in the communications and PR industry. Members of the team have many years experience in the industry and together, we are able to deliver the best strategies and outcomes.